2. Understanding this document

This document is intended to provide easily accessible information on fees, billing and approval processes in the NSW workers compensation system, drawn together from multiple sources into a single document. It is anticipated this will make administration of billing and approval processes easier for insurers and providers and reduce the potential for billing and coding errors.

This document refers to legally binding requirements imposed by the

- Workers Compensation Act 1987 (1987 Act)
- Workplace Injury Management and Workers Compensation Act 1998 (1998 Act)
- Workers Compensation Guidelines (Guidelines) and
- Workers Compensation (Hearing Aid Fees) Order 2022 (Fees Order) (see link to fees order in footnote on page 3).

These are reproduced here for your convenience. The legislation, Fees Order and guidelines set out above are the ultimate source of your legal obligations.

The table in part 1 set out legally binding requirements:

- the requirements set out in columns 1, 2, 3 and 5 are extracted from the Fees Order, which is made under s 61(2) of the 1987 Act. The Fees Order sets the maximum fees for which an employer is liable under the 1987 Act for any hearing treatment related services provided to a NSW worker. Costs must not exceed the maximum fee for the treatment or services specified in the Fees Order.
- the requirements set out in column 4 are derived from clause 4 of the Guidelines, which are made under section 376(1)(c) of the 1998 Act, and under s 60(2A)(a) of the 1987 Act. Clause 4 of the Guidelines specifies the types or classes of treatment or services that are exempt from the requirement for prior insurer approval set out in s 60(2A)(a).

This document also includes best practice guidance from SIRA.

The words 'must', 'required' (and variations of that word) or 'mandatory' indicate a legal requirement that must be complied with. The words 'should' or 'is expected' indicate recommended best practice.

3. Practice requirements for hearing service providers

To be appropriately qualified for the purposes of section 60 of the 1987 Act to give or provide a treatment or service to a worker in NSW, a hearing service provider as defined in Part 7 of this document must be approved by SIRA.

3.1. Hearing rehabilitation

Involves the assessment, planning and delivery of tailored best practice hearing rehabilitation for the worker, encompassing all necessary education, hearing rehabilitation and counselling to facilitate effective hearing and for the worker to achieve their communication goals.

3.2. Hearing accessories

To assist workers further, hearing aid accessories may be indicated to supplement the use of a hearing aid to assist listening, communication and functioning in different environments. The hearing service provider should provide the insurer with clinical justification as to how this accessory is reasonably necessary to meet a hearing goal.

3.3. Treating exempt workers

SIRA approval is not required to provide hearing services to exempt workers (defined below).

There is no requirement for exempt workers to seek pre-approval from their employer's insurer for treatment (as set out in column 4 of part 1).

However, the exempt workers are to be made aware that payment of treatment and services for exempt workers will be assessed by insurers based on whether the treatment or service is required as a result of the injury and is considered reasonably necessary and on the provision of properly verified costs. The maximum fees set out in part 1 apply to exempt workers.

3.4. Best practice service provision via telehealth

Hearing service providers should consider the clinical appropriateness of delivery of services via telehealth on a case-by-case basis and be satisfied that it will not compromise client outcomes. The worker's preferences with response to telehealth should be considered.

The use of telehealth for consultations should be discussed with and consented to by the worker prior to the delivery of services. All telehealth consultations require insurer pre-approval.

4. Fee requirements for treatment

While you must not charge more than the maximum fees stated in this table and gazetted in the Fees Order, you may charge a lower fee.

Workers are not liable for the cost of any reasonably necessary medical or related treatment required as a result of an injury received by the worker (see section 60 of the 1987 Act). The employer is liable to pay these fees and, under section 61(2) of the 1987 Act, is not liable to pay the cost of treatment that is in excess of the maximum fees set by SIRA. These requirements regarding maximum fees apply to treatment provided under the 1987 Act outside of NSW.

Insurers may set their own fee limits for services to workers. These must not exceed the maximum fees in the relevant fees order.

Under section 60(3) of the 1987 Act payments are to be made as costs are incurred, but only if properly verified. This means that:

- a fee must not be charged where a worker cancels or does not attend scheduled treatment services
- pre-payment of fees for reports and services must not be sought.

5. Penalties

This part provides information to help service providers understand the penalties for non-compliance with fees.

- SIRA and insurers have systems for monitoring compliance with billing and payments rules.

- Hearing service providers cannot bill for services set out in schedule A in excess of the maximum fee, where this occurs recovery may be sought for payment in excess of maximum amounts.
- SIRA also reserves the right to refer misconduct to the relevant professional body, Health Professional Councils Authority, or the Health Care Complaints Commission.
- The workers compensation legislation provides for criminal penalties for:
 - fraud on the workers compensation scheme (s 235A of the 1998 Act) or knowingly making a false or misleading statement relating to a claim (s 235C of the 1998 Act).

6. How to invoice

This part provides guidance to help service providers bill for services that have been delivered.

6.1. What information should I include on invoices?

To enable consistent data collection from service providers and insurers and ensure accurate payments, certain information should be included on invoices. An example invoice is included below to assist providers and insurers. Invoices should contain the following information:

- ✓ Worker's first and last name, and claim number
- ✓ Payee details
- ✓ ABN of the payee
- ✓ Name of the service provider who provided the service
- ✓ The providers SIRA workers compensation approval number, or where treatment is provided:
 - interstate – Hearing service providers who practice exclusively outside of NSW and provide services in practices outside of NSW to workers in the NSW workers compensation scheme living outside of NSW are not required to be approved by SIRA. In these cases, providers should submit the service provider number INT0000.
 - to exempt workers – Hearing service providers providing treatment under the NSW workers compensation scheme to police officers, paramedics, fire fighters and coal miners) are not required to be approved by SIRA. In these cases, providers should submit the service provider number EXT0000.
- ✓ Date of service
- ✓ SIRA workers compensation payment classification code (as per part 1)
- ✓ List service cost for each SIRA workers compensation payment classification code and service duration (if applicable) as a separate line item
- ✓ Date of invoice (must be on the day of or after last date of service listed on the invoice)

6.1.1. Example invoice format:

6.2. How is GST applied?

An amount fixed by this Order is exclusive of GST. An amount fixed by this Order may be increased by the amount of any GST payable in respect of the service to which the cost relates, and the cost so increased is taken to be the amount fixed by this Order. This clause does not permit a hearing service provider to charge or recover more than the amount of GST payable in respect of the service to which the cost relates.

6.3. When do I submit an invoice?

Invoices should be submitted within 30 calendar days of the service being provided.
