Please outline your feedback here:

I am very concerned that the proposed SIRA guidelines fail to include Occupational Therapy or Rehabilitation Counselling in the list of Allied Health Professionals. By not including these professions in your SIRA Guidelines, I have grave concerns that the vital role in the provision of rehabilitation for SIRA participants may be lost. As an Occupational Therapist and owner of a large rehabilitation provider, I believe our role in discharge planning, care assessments, equipment provision, home modification, graded ADL programs, ergonomic review, cognitive rehabilitation, driving assessment/retraining, ergonomics and return to work, case management and task modification is vital in getting outcomes. it is strongly requested that our profession is included as being a key provider of health services
